

Nature Champions Back Biodiversity

Bog sun-jumper spider

Known from just 5 sites in Central Scotland, all are now just fragments of what was a huge and well connected bog network in central Scotland.

This spider, just 3mm long, relies on healthy peat bogs which in turn provide carbon storage and water attenuation.

Restoring over 230 hectares of degraded lowland raised bog habitat in the Central belt of Scotland:
<https://www.buglife.org.uk/projects/slamannan-bog-restoration/>

