

Nature Champions Back Biodiversity

Rusty Bog-moss

Sphagnum mosses are essential building blocks of peat bogs. They are keystone species on which other peatland wildlife rely.

They form peat by holding water, providing essential nutrients and preventing the decay of dead plant material.

Working to restore the Flow Country to its original state: <https://www.theflowcountry.org.uk/about-us/>

